I have never known exactly what caused a crick in the neck, and I guess that not even our medical friends know all there is to know about it. In a general way, it seems that the common cold has something to do with a crick, although I have had them when I had no sign of a cold. People generally say that cricks indicate a cold has settled in the muscles of the neck, causing stiffness and discomfort, and there seems little to be done about it except to smile and bear it, and wait for it to go away. There is also a theory that the crick moves about; that it can be moved away from the neck and into some other part of the body, and I have heard people say that if it can be moved into the arms it can then be rubbed constantly until it passes on down the arm and out at the ends of the fingers. By this time a week or two weeks will have passed and the crick should be cured anyway.

The only thing of which I am positive about cricks is that they are decidedly uncomfortable and annoying and embarrassing. I have been worrying along with one for several days and I can certify that this particular crick has been particularly annoying. I have had cricks many times, but never until a few nights ago did I attend a basketball game while entertaining a crick in the neck. This procedure I cannot recommend to any one, except to say that is a painful experience.

Two or three years ago, I remember, I unwisely decided that I could play a round of golf while suffering with a crick in the neck. I knew quite well that my score would be a terrible thing indeed, but lots of times I have had such scores when there was nothing the matter with me, and this would be no new experience. I had a secret idea that by swinging a golf club quite vigorously I would pop that crick loose and so might lose it.

In some respects a crick in the neck is a sort of advantage for a golfer. When preparing to hit a golf ball it is necessary—or so most golfers believe—that the head be held more or less rigidly. A man preparing to hit a golf ball must firmly fix his eyes on the small white ball and never take them off that object until, when and if, his club head swings through, hits the ball and then goes on through the follow-through motion. Then the poor man can gently lift his head, and if all has gone well, the ball will be speeding through the air about two hundred yards away.

So, I found that the crick really helped in this manner. The first time I anchored my head, crick and all, in the approved manner, and hit the ball. It rose and soared quite nicely and I was wondering what might be done to secure a permanent crick. For two or three shots it worked quite all right, but about the fourth shot, something went wrong. I hit the ground back of the ball, and it was a mighty wallop. My head jerked up, and I could hear bones cracking and popping in all regions. I knew then that a crick was not the certain way to insure perfect golf shots.

Basketball from the spectator's angle is another thing which is not comfortable while entertaining a crick. Seated near the middle of the playing court at this game, I soon found this to be true. It was quite a fast game, with the ball going from one team to the other

Concession
Offered On Lend Measure

Would Require FDR Get
Both Authority, Funds
Congress

Washington, — Still seeking more votes for the lease-lend bill, administration leaders in the Senate today offered its opponents a surprise concession which, they said, would give Congress firmer financial control over the aid-to-Britain program.

In essence their proposal, approved late in the day by a Senate foreign relations subcommittee, would require that the President obtain both "authorizations" and "appropriations" from Congress. Senator Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic leader, explained that first the President could ask for authority to enter into contracts for the manufacture of supplies and their delivery to Britain. Later he would have to ask specific appropriations, listing the number and kinds of equipment.

The modifications, its backers said, would remove any basis for charges that the lease-lend bill itself was a "blank check" to the President to spend unlimited amounts in supplying defense items to countries whose defense he deems vital to the defense of the United States.

Can't Spare Ships
Downtown, meanwhile, there was a sharp repudiation from Wendell L. Willkie's proposal that five or ten destroyers be transferred to England each month. Secretary Knox bluntly told reporters that the Navy could spare no more destroyers and still maintain a "balanced fleet." As Secretary of the Navy, he said, his position was "against depleting our navy further."

The Willkie suggestion was, nevertheless, reported to be receiving serious consideration in some administration quarters, and there was much speculation, and whether it might not have been discussed at last night's meeting between Willkie and President Roosevelt.

75 Dog Mascots
Offered To Laddie
As Blood Donors

Monterey, Calif., — The seventy-five dog mascots of companies at Fort Ord were offered Wednesday by the fort's 20,000 men for blood transfusions to help save the life of Laddie.

The 10-year-old alreale, so broken hearted over being separated from his master, Pvt. Everett Scott, that he had refused to eat, has been recovering slowly since he was brought by plane from Kansas City to his master's side.

One blood transfusion helped. A huge St. Bernard is standing by, and Wednesday the men at the camp joined in offering the mascots of various companies for other transfusions, if needed.

Icy Dip In Ocean, Florida Trip
Told By Missing Bridegroom

Linden, N. J., — Police accepted in bewilderment today Edward F. McMahon's account of an odyssey which began with a dip in the icy Atlantic Ocean and ended in Florida after hitch-hiking by boat and truck.

McMahon, 23 years old and a recent bridegroom, was reported missing January 31 after his clothes and automobile had been found near Morgan, N. J., where he indulged in winter bathing.

Rescued From Ocean
Police said he gave the following account of his disappearance and subsequent return home last Sunday:
The pounding surf exhausted him and he clung to a pile of rocks

U. K. Laboratory
For Aeronautics
To Open Soon

Lexington, Ky., — The University of Kentucky's $150,000 aeronautical research laboratory will open about March 1, A. J. Meyer, professor of aeronautical and mechanical engineering, announced today.

Teaching, training, testing and research in aircraft engines will be the main work of the plant, only one of its kind in the United States.

Fifteen graduate engineers will be employed and subsequent additions probably will increase the number to thirty, the laboratory head said.

Undergraduates will be instructed in laboratory procedure of aircraft engine plants and credit courses in aeronautical laboratory work may be offered.

The laboratory was built and equipped with funds donated by Axel Wenner-Gren, Swedish industrialist and philanthropist.

$675,000 "Theft"

Turns Into Hunt
For Hiding Places

Miami Beach, Fla., — A $675,000 "robbery" investigation on Star Island, rich residential section of Miami Beach, Wednesday turned into a treasure hunt for lost jewelry and cash.

Detective Chief Earl D. Carpenter said Roe Wells, who called police into the case late Tuesday, reported that missing jewels valued at $300,000 and at least $22,575 of the $475,000 reported lost in cash had been found in their home.

"In my opinion," Carpenter said, "the rest of the money will be found in the home just as soon as Mrs. Wells is able to remember where she put it."

Back on land, he hailed a truck with New York license plates, expecting to get a ride home. He fell asleep and when he awoke he was in Jacksonville, Fla., instead of his native Roselle.

Then began some more hitch-hiking. Heading north, he reached Camden, S. C., and his funds gave out. Police there communicated with his father and bus fare was promptly forthcoming.
"That's his story. We're through," said Linden police.

Industry On Pacific Coast Now
Tops Production During 1929

San Francisco, — The Pacific Coast's high-flying aircraft industry geared its 1940 production up to thirty-two times that of 1929.

It was the most amazing of Far Western industrial exploits during the twenty-year period covered in the Federal Reserve Bank survey of business. The survey compared trends in twenty-nine production lines.

Twenty of the twenty-nine lines chalked up 1940 gains over 1929 production. Six fell back and three held even.

Seven Lines Lag
Over the eleven-year period twenty-two lines increased volume of production by 1940, while seven lagged. On the average, the twenty-nine industries operated in 1929 some 82 per cent above production of a decade earlier. In 1940 that average rate was up 131 per cent from 1929.

A number of industries reached new high annual records in 1940.

British Finish
20 New Ships
In 20 Days

New York, — British shipyards, operating despite air bombings, completed or launched twenty vessels aggregating 104,742 gross tons in twenty days at the end of 1940, a supplement of Lloyd's register of shipping showed Wednesday.

The supplement, covering the period from December 13 to January 2, listed nineteen new freighters and one tanker. Two of the vessels were built in the Far East, Hongkong, British India.

British and allied shipping losses have averaged about 32,000 tons per week. Thus the supplement indicates England is replacing slightly more than 50 per cent of her average weekly losses through new construction.

PROJECT TO INDEX
COUNTY DOCUMENTS

Frankfort, Ky., — State sponsorship of a $453,000 WPA project to index county documents in Kentucky was approved today by Secretary of State George Glenn Hatcher.

Charles W. Stinger of Lexington, district supervisor of the WPA's official projects, research and records program, said the undertaking would provide 13,000,000 man-hours of work for clerical personnel of Kentucky WPA rolls.

Each county participating is required to supply 25 per cent of the costs in that county.

DRIVERS' LICENSE
SUSPENSIONS NEARLY DOUBLE 1940 FIGURE

Frankfort, Ky., — Automobile drivers' licenses are being revoked or suspended at almost a two-to-one rate over last year.

The tightening up in enforcing the law was explained by State Revenue Commissioner H. Clyde Reeves as due to "making every effort to cooperate with the Governor in making effective his recent proclamation of February as 'safety month'."

Reeves said 175 licenses were revoked or suspended in January. The State Highway Patrol also reported it was "making it tough" for motor vehicle operators who flout the traffic laws. Director Jack W. Nelson issued special enforcement orders to patrolmen following Gov. Keen Johnson's proclamation.

Traffic Increases
After Toll Cut
On Paducah Span

Paducah, Ky., — A report from the Greater Paducah Association today showed that traffic of passenger vehicles over the Paducah-Brookport Ohio River bridge jumped 42 per cent during the first ten days of this month, as compared with the same period a year ago.

Passenger cars using the bridge in the first ten days of February, 1940, totaled 6,081. During the first ten days of this month a total of 8,662 passenger vehicles crossed the bridge, an increase of 2,581 vehicles.

A toll reduction on the bridge, cutting the passenger car fare from 25 cents to 15 cents, went into effect February 1.

Lord's Wife Jailed
For Talk To Willkie
Rome Radio Says

New York, — The Rome radio reported Wednesday under a Budapest date line:

"The arrest by London police of Lady Howard of Effingham, of Hungarian extraction, has caused a big sensation in Hungary. It is known that the wife of Lord Effingham was interned because she illustrated to Wendell Willkie the real situation prevailing in Britain."

Lady Howard, 29, Hungarian-born wife of the heir to the Earl of Effingham, was imprisoned in Britain on Monday under the defense of the realm act.

Civilian "Tails"
O. K. For Officers
At White House

Washington, — Many an Army officer on duty at the capital grined his appreciation today of a new official anti-gold braid policy which tonight permits him for the first time to wear civilian dress clothes at the annual White House reception for military and naval officers.

The officers' pleasure was due to the fact that the formal "blues" cost them anywhere from $200 to $500 and the only place many of them ever wore them was the White House reception.

The Army started its everyday dress policy last summer when many officers were assigned to tent camps and other temporary quarters and when hundreds of National Guard and reserve officers were being called to duty.

Judge Praises
Speeder's Alibi
Of Tailwind

Santa Clara, Calif., — Amos White, accused of speeding a mile a minute on Bayshore Hwy., pleaded:

"I was trying to go the right speed, Your Honor, but I couldn't hold the car down 'cause a heavy tailwind just kept pushing me along faster'n I wanted to go."

Retorted Justice Charles A. Thompson:

"That is the best alibi I've heard since last summer when a speeder told me it was so hot he had to go fast to cool off in the breeze he created. Five dollars."

Confederate
Gray Chosen
For Militia

Frankfort, Ky., — Confederate gray uniforms, set off by black belts, ties and shoes, for Kentucky's new active militia have been approved by the Army Fifth Corps commander.

"It will make one of the snappiest uniforms any military outfit ever wore," Adj. Gen. John A. Pollin said. "I believe the War Department in Washington will certainly give the final O. K."

Polin received a wire today from Fifth Corps headquarters in Fort Hayes, Ohio, approving the proposed uniforms and advising they were being recommended to Washington.

Army regulations authorize the States in organizing guard companies for home defense to select their uniforms so long as they differ sufficiently from those of the United States Army and National Guard to avoid confusion.

Britain About
To Call Out
19-Year-Olds

Air Raids Repeated Over
The German
Areas

London, — Britain dipped deep into her manpower reserve Wednesday night, disclosing youths 19 years old will be called for military service almost immediately, and pressed the pre-spring air offensive against industrial Germany with waves of bombers.

In the House of Lords, Lord Moyne, Government leader and new Colonial Secretary, disclosed the imminent call-up for 19-year-olds. Oldsters 37 to 40 will be summoned soon afterward, he said, to swell the 4,000,000 men Britain already has under arms for the defensive—and offensive—campaigns to come.

Women to Be Registered
These, along with 18-year-olds, were registered January 29, but it was indicated the youngest class would be the last called up.

Already men from 20 to 36 fit for military service and whose skills are not more useful in other war work have been enrolled in successive stages for military training.

Dovetailed with the call upon manpower were plans, nearly complete, for the registration of women to be drafted into munitions factories and other services to replace men donning uniforms.

SCOUT NEWS

At seven o'clock last night Troop 43 met at the Scout Cabin with 26 boys present, six visitors, and four officers. Mr. Louis Weeks gave the boys some pointers on the proper manner of attention and the position of ease. He also talked on a plan for teaching First Aid.

There will be a Court of Honor next week. The Scouts of Troop 43 are to meet at the Methodist Church Monday night to make plans for a Scout Drive. Wednesday night at six thirty, Troop 43 will go and cook supper out if the weather permits, if it does not there will be a regular Scout meeting.

After roll call the Wolf Patrol led by Tolbert Dallas, was treated to a show. When they had seen the picture the Scouts departed to their various homes.

Don Sensing Dick Meacham and Tom E. Williams were absent from the meeting. Sensing left home for the cabin but did not show up, wonder why? Let's all attend next week.

"Embalmed Manners" Upheld As
As Cause For Florida Divorce

Tallahassee, Fla., — Florida's Supreme Court Tuesday upheld a divorce decree Mrs. Maude H. Griesen, wealthy, 58-year-old St. Petersburg woman, and John L. Griesen, 54-year-old dancing instructor whom she married after a brief courtship.

The opinion, written by Justice Glenn Terrell, said in part: "Extreme cruelty does not necessarily require a paddling or the giving of a black eye."

"Modern As Movie Star"
The parties to this cause were not inexperienced neophytes. They were in fact both products of the last years of the 19th century, the hoop skirt, and the Mother Hubbard era, the era that produced turnip greens, cracklin bread and mint julep.

"The plaintiff was... possessed of a spacious home with every modern appointment but a government mortgage. She was as modern as a movie star, this being her fourth ablation in the popular old pool of matrimony."

"The defendant was a dancing master and a stranger to the lush times and luxuries that had been the portion of the complainant. Like most of us, he was poor in goods, narrow in horizon, and the most he endowed his bride with was tails and a natty disposition."

A HARD CHOICE

Presumably all those men who express adverse opinions about the wisdom of entire aid to England and of the Lease-Lend Bill, are true Americans. The lessons of the last war are still before us, and many people now sincerely believe that we could have remained out of that conflict with profit to ourselves and advantage to the entire world. No doubt there are many good Americans who sincerely believe that we can stay at home, attend to our own affairs and take no part in the present conflict. These people no doubt believe that the Lease-Lend Bill will carry us into the war, and this belief is probably well founded. If it passes, and pass it will, we are very near open conflict with the Axis Powers.

Yet there appears no other choice to many millions of sober thinking Americans. Events of the past few years have painted a picture of which there can be no misunderstanding. Hitler is making a great bid for world domination, and if England is beaten we will face this monstrous force alone. All history of the past few years shows this all too clearly. Remember the words of Herr Hitler in his book, "Mein Kampf," and judge accordingly. Here is what Hitler said in those years before he came to supreme power in Germany:

"It will be my duty to fight the next war in such a terrible manner that my enemies cannot endure it. Each country will imagine that it alone will escape. I shall not even need to destroy them one by one. Selfishness and lack of foresight will prevent each one fighting until it is too late."

There can be no misunderstanding of those sinister words. Hitler meant exactly what he said, and while those who read his book years ago may have smiled at such utter egotism, those smiles are now wiped off. For Hitler, since writing that book, has come a long way in carrying out his plans. Today only one force stands between him and utter domination of the European continent. He has carried on such a war as he planned and complicity, national sloth, lack of foresight, have wrecked many nations already. France is a striking example of that situation, for here a great nation fell without serious resistance. Hitler's underground campaign wrecked France before the war ever started.

So, at this late day, we are trying to put our house in order. England is the last remaining barrier to German domination of the European Continent, and if England collapses we will face a malignant enemy, and an enemy which will have control of the Atlantic. Many people say that this could make little difference in the American way of living, but Dr. Conant, president of Harvard University, has a different view. He testified a few days ago before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and envisioned a world which saw England defeated and Germany in control of the Atlantic. "We should then be un-wiped off. For Hitler, since writing that book, has come a long way in carrying out his plans. Today only one force stands between him and likes to deal with his enemies one by one, would not our chance of holding fast to the free way of life be small indeed?"

Dr. Conant asked a question, but he knew the answer quite well. Other millions of Americans also know the answer, and know that such a chance as Dr. Conant mentions would be small, indeed.

WAR AND PEACE SIGNIFIED BY DIPLOMATIC MOVES

Of the comings and goings of European diplomats—movements which foreshadow possible developments in the war—the visit to Rome today of Generalissimo Francisco Franco is perhaps the most momentous. The mission to Sofia of Russia's special envoy Arkady Soboleff is interpreted to mean that Russia will not interfere if Germany attempts to march through Bulgaria. The departure from Bucharest of British Minister Sir Reginald Hoare terminates diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Rumania and indicates the long-expected Drang Nach Osten is in the offing. Franco's journey has a more peaceful appearance but it may fit in with the plans of the Axis.

Franco would not be going to Italy if the purpose were military collaboration with the Axis. For that purpose the Axis would go to Franco. Hitler, in fact, made such a visit, but war-weary Spain turned a deaf ear to his importunings and his promises. Mussolini would, no doubt, go post haste to Madrid if by that means he could gain assistance in his present desperate predicament.

The Franco mission, it therefore may be assumed, is a peace mission. For the time being on good terms with Britain, Franco may be bearing an offer to act as mediator. Spain, it will be remembered, played such a role when defeated France sued for an armistice. Italy, ingloriously defeated in Libya, Ethiopia and Albania, and with its cities bombarded by the British fleet and the British air force, is today in a worse condition than was France. A separate peace would come as a blessing but Germany would oppose such a peace and would regard it as an invitation to invade the peninsula.

What Germany would welcome and Britain oppose would be a cessation of the Italo-Grecian conflict. Italy's Greek campaign has not only been disastrous, it has allowed Britain to establish air and naval bases at Crete in easy bombing distance of the heel of the Italian boot and of the Rumanian oil

SUNSHINE AND SHADOWS

Farmington, Conn.—State Police said this is what happened to an automobile in which two New Britain men were riding:

It climbed a four-foot bank, hurtled 45 feet through the air, hit the ground and turned over, traveled 25 more feet through the air and hit the ground before taking a third aerial hop of 23 feet.

John Pisko, 32, suffered a lacerated finger, and John Olaja was bruised above the right eye.

Pratt, Kansas.—Two Kansas towns, Pratt and nearby Kingman, long had boasted perfect safety records—not a motor car fatality in ten years.

They then entered a statewide safety contest. Within a few days a girl was killed at Kingman. Another car accident sent Joe Helsel, Pratt businessman, to a hospital.

Lamar, Colo.—Dark-eyed Evelyn Hatchett, 19, sought admission to a pilot training course Jan. 2, but was rejected because she was an inch too short.

For a month, following the advice of Dr. L. E. Ljkes, CAA medical examiner, she stretched, bent her head back, and changed a bar, morning and night.

Training For Defense

By Rufus T. Strohm

Dean, International Correspondence Schools

NEVER has the skilled mechanic had a greater opportunity to serve his country. Even the man who has but a little mechanical training has a chance to jump quickly into a more responsible position. Many major industries have apprenticeship programs that will be greatly enlarged in the next year or two. Some firms are installing training programs for the first time.

The man who is content to "ride along" in the wake of all this intensified training will have no one to blame but himself if he finds himself still classified as unskilled labor.

Thousands of ambitious young men who through no fault of their own could not attend high school and college in recent years, now have a great chance to educate themselves. Much of this training can be secured at the expense of their employers. These men are urgently needed to fill gaps in the ranks of semi-skilled labor. These ranks have been depleted by the emergency demands of the present which caused many plants to promote men to better positions on a moment's notice.

Some time in the future this country will be faced with the enormous task of finding employment for those now engaged in producing military equipment. When this period of transition comes, it will challenge every man's resourcefulness, especially the man who is not among the most skilled workers. Here, then, is the opportunity for that man to prepare himself for the inevitable readjustment which will come "after the war." He can be ready. He is going to have a real opportunity to be ready. His future is thus entirely up to him.

served Lincoln's birthday as a legal holiday today but a big wooden box shielded the carved likeness of the War Between the State President for the view of the visitors to the capitol.

Because of the large-scale repairs under way on the statehouse dome, which had been in a weakened condition, statues of Lincoln and others in the rotunda beneath it have been crated up to prevent damage to them.

The 14-foot figure of Lincoln was presented to the state by J. R. Speed, Louisville industrialist. It cost 40,000 and was carved by A. A. Weinmann of New York, who studied under Augustus St. Gaudens, the author of the noted Lincoln statue in Lincoln Park, Chicago.

The Weinmann statue shares the rotunda with figures of Jefferson Davis, the Confederacy President; Senator Henry Clay of Kentucky and Dr. Ephraim McDowell, noted Kentucky surgeon.

FULGHAM NEWS

By Miss Docie Jones

P. T. A. Meeting

Thursday night, February 20, the Fulgham Parent-Teachers Association will meet here in regular session for an important business meeting. For an entertaining number, a group of married men will stage a two-act farce comedy in an attempt to check the growing power of the women and to demonstrate in a convincing and unquestionable way that they, the husbands, are "boss of the family."

The first act is "Talk." The second act is "Facts." The audience will be the "judge."

Busy Meeting

Mt. Pleasant W. S. C. S. met at the church Wednesday afternoon with thirteen members in attendance. The program was given from the Christian Advocate and our pledge for the year was made. The superintendent of local activities presented plans for planting shrubbery and beautifying campus and for a Valentine social.

Those present were Mrs. E. E. Armbruster, president; Mrs. Cecil Margante, vice-president; Mrs. Cortez Bone, secretary; and Mesdames Smith Pharis, Vera Wheeler, H. M. Floyd, Ellen D. Berry, Len Barclay, Edward Kimbrell, F. C. Allen, Emerson Henderson, Renick Armbruster and Miss Docie Jones.
